Aroha Luxury New Zealand Tour's forte lies in designing exclusive experiences that enhance the understanding and enjoyment of New Zealand. Trips are planned around each guest's specific interest, taste and preference, providing helpful tips and advice based on first-hand knowledge of the destination. Private guided tours and luxury custom vacations are offered throughout the country.

Aroha - meaning "love" in the Maori language - is an apt word for a vacation company that's passionate about customers experiencing a memorable trip. No excursion is off-limits for Veronika Vermeulen and her team. Her private guides have helicoptered travellers onto active volcanoes, or arranged for them to jetbike down mountains.

The company offers private guided tours that are 100% customized. Trips shown on their website are guidelines for clients. They do not offer self-drive trips. "No one holiday is the same—each is created to suit a particular client," explains Veronika, who founded Aroha Luxury New Zealand Tours 16 years ago. "And that is what makes them unforgettable." Aroha's Meet & Greet Service ensures a hassle-free experience on arrival. And for those in search of luxury, Aroha is happy to organize private helicopter charters and accommodation at top rated destinations, including Blanket Bay Lodge, which has won awards from Andrew Harper's Hideaway Report and Australia's Luxury Travel Magazine, and has been feted by Condé Nast Traveller. “New Zealand has become a real draw for honeymooners,” says Veronika Vermeulen, owner of the concierge travel company Aroha Luxury New Zealand Tours. “From fabulous private lodges to extraordinary gastronomy to unique adventures, you’ll find everything here that you could possibly want from a luxurious break with your partner.”

No one knows more about New Zealand’s finer experiences than Vermeulen. Her company specializes in tailor-made tours, hosted by a personal driver-guide. “No two of our holidays are the same,” she says. “We start from scratch with each client and we work with a wide range of providers to give guests the chance to have exclusive experiences and to get to know New Zealand in a very personal way.”

Vermeulen’s guides have helicoptered travellers on to active volcanoes and arranged for them to take private jetboats along the river from the sea to the mountain. “Nothing is out of our league,” she says. “If you want to enjoy a gourmet meal on top of a glacier, we can do it for you. Our guides will go out of their way to help with any request.”

For Vermeulen, the magic of New Zealand is its diversity. “Every landscape you can think of is here,” she says. “It’s possible to ski in the morning and then surf in the afternoon. Over a two-week trip, you could see fjords, mountains, deserts, rainforests and glaciers.”

Vermeulen, originally from Berlin, first came to New Zealand 20 years ago. “I was instantly struck with its warmth and beauty. I moved here without a job or any connections, but I’ve never regretted it. New Zealand is the most extraordinary playground on earth.”

Her team of experts includes a former member of the New Zealand Symphony Orchestra, a ski instructor and a TV production coordinator. "Our guides are very cultured people, with excellent people skills," she says. "They're not extroverts. They know when holidaymakers want time on their own."

The focus is always on creating an unforgettable trip of a lifetime.
